STATE OF FLORIDA

MILITARY DEPARTMENT

OFFICE OF THE ADJUTANT GENERAL

St. Augustine

1 January 1957

His Excellency, The Governor of Florida and Commander-in-Chief, Florida National Guard, Tallahassee, Florida

Sir:

Submitted herewith in accordance with Section 250.10, Florida Statutes, 1949, is the biennial report of The Adjutant General of Florida, pertaining to the administration of the Military Department, State of Florida for the calendar years 1955 and 1956.

This report is intended to fulfill two purposes, (1) to provide information on the Florida National Guard for interested governmental and private organizations, and (2) to provide permanent reference material of historical value.

Respectfully yours,

MARK W. LANCE

Major General

The Adjutant General

GENERAL

During the years 1955-56 the mission of the Florida National Guard has remained unchanged. The State mission is to provide military organizations trained and equipped to function where necessary in the protection of life and property, and in the preservation of peace, order, and the public safety as directed by competent State authority. The Federal mission is to provide reserve components of the Army of the United States and the Air Force of the United States capable of operating efficiently in event of a national emergency.

In keeping with the changing pattern of Army organization, the 48th Infantry Division was converted to the 48th Armored Division during the biennium. Our organizational structure of sharing the 51st Infantry Division with the State of South Carolina, and sharing the 48th Armored Division with the State of Georgia, remains the same. No changes were made in our Anti-aircraft troops, consisting of a group headquarters and two non-divisional battalions; our two Transportation Truck companies and State Headquarters Detachment remain the same. The Florida Air National Guard, consisting of a Fighter Interceptor Squadron, was expanded to form an operational Air Group during the period.

The enactment of the Armed Forces Act of 1955 by Congress, strengthening the Reserve Components, has presented many problems to the National Guard. These have in most cases been satisfactorily solved and there appears to be every indication that with the enforcement of the provisions of this Act the Reserve Components, including the National Guard, will in the next several years benefit considerably thereby. The hope that the enactment of the Act would bring an immediate answer to the securing of personnel did not materialize and recruiting remains one of the major problems of the National Guard. Many of our units have attained authorized strength and the Florida National Guard still maintains its place among the leaders of the Nation in this regard.

Our training objectives are being reached, and an increasing number of our units are being rated as Excellent and Superior. The Florida National Guard continues to take full advantage of the educational opportunities offered by the Army and Air Force by each year filling its quotas to the technical and service schools operated by these agencies. An increasing number of guardsmen volunteering for six-months basic training course conducted by the Army is supplying many of our units with basically trained personnel. The three months basic training given by the Air Force each summer to each newly enlisted Florida Air National Guardsman in lieu of the normal summer field training has been a great training help to our Air National Guard.

Our need for improved armory facilities has not as yet been fully met but full advantage has been taken of the funds supplied by the State, Federal government and local communities. Armories have been constructed or contracts have been let in nine communities in the State during the biennium. Continued advantage will be taken of the present policies of the Federal government in helping to finance armories in those communities where they are needed.

Industry has continued to come into Florida in increasing numbers, bringing with it the many industrial and labor problems inherent thereto. The steady stream of people moving into Florida is creating many new problems for our State government.

To perform its State mission in the protection of life and property, and to preserve peace and order, the Florida National Guard realizes its responsibility to maintain an efficient, well trained, well equipped force, ready for use by the State in any emergency that might arise.

Detailed reports as to organization, training, administration, logistical and fiscal support, are to be found in this biennial report under their appropriate headings.

TRAINING AND OPERATIONS

TRAINING

FLORIDA ARMY NATIONAL GUARD

Objectives

To ensure that each member of the National Guard has attained the required level of proficiency to accomplish his assignment in either federal or state service.

To ensure that each unit of the National Guard, starting with the squad, and progressing to larger units, is trained to accomplish its mission, either federal or state.

Armory Training

During the biennium it was found necessary to require all units to simultaneously conduct basic training, advanced individual training and unit training. This requirement was necessitated by the continuing heavy turnover of personnel. A degree of latitude was allowed each unit commander in the preparation of his training directive or schedule to allow him to stress those subjects that required emphasis.

Since federal funds for the employment of the unit caretakers were withdrawn as of 30 June 1953 and during the period of this report a large amount of equipment was received by units, maintenance became a paramount problem. To help overcome this problem the number of organizational maintenance shops has been increased since 1 January 1955 from five to sixteen, thirteen of which are now operational. In addition it has been found necessary to increase the number of scheduled hours devoted to maintenance.

A concerted effort has been made to improve the lesson plans and instructional methods used by the noncommissioned and commissioned officer instructors. Steady improvement has been noted in this phase of training. In addition the number of units conducting noncommissioned and officer classes in leadership and related subjects has been maintained.

Each armory has an adequate supply of training aids and publications. Each unit maintains a satisfactory reference library. Each armory now has a motion picture projector, an opaque projector and an overhead projector which greatly facilitate visual training procedures. Training films, on a loan basis, covering all appropriate subjects, are available to each unit.

Week-End Training

During the biennium week-end training was conducted by all units. These assemblies were held either on a voluntary basis or in lieu of armory drills. These week-end training periods were devoted to qualification of all personnel in small arms marksmanship or to conduct unit tactical field training. Since the hour requirement for week-end drill is greater than for armory drill this type of training has been extremely beneficial to all units. In consequence units have been taking more advanced training during their summer field training.

Staff Training

Week-end staff training has been conducted at battalion, regiment or group and division levels. Joint division staff conferences have been conducted with the Georgia and South Carolina parts of the division. Staff training material for each battalion and higher level staff has been obtained from the various service schools. This material, sufficient in both quantity and quality, has been used very beneficially by all staffs.

Week-end Staff Meetings for the two-year period were conducted as follows:

Field Training

During the period of field training all units concentrate on subjects that cannot be taught efficiently during the armory training period. Tanks and other heavy material are maneuvered and firing practices of large caliber weapons are conducted. All units go into field bivouac positions and live under combat conditions. During field training Army Training Tests are conducted. During this biennium marked improvement has been shown in training. This improvement has been reflected in the ratings awarded as a result of these tests.

Field Training during this period took place as follows:

School Program

As the state of training of all units of the Florida National Guard continues to advance, special emphasis has been placed on military education opportunities offered through Army Service Schools and Army Extension Courses. Over ten percent of all members are presently enrolled in the Army Extension Course Program.

Conversion to Armor

Pursuant to General Orders No. 33, Adjutant Generals Office, Florida National Guard, dated 24 October 1955 the 48th Infantry Division (Fla Part) was converted to the 48th Armored Division (Fla Part) effective 1 November 1955. This conversion necessitated many changes in personnel and equipment. As a result an intensive training program for both officers and key noncommissioned officers was instituted. To illustrate the scope of this training 104 officers and 172 enlisted men of the newly converted 48th Armored Division (Fla Part) attended Army Service Schools.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Strength

The relative standing of the Florida National Guard among the forty-eight States, Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, the District of Columbia and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico is best shown by the following:

Date	Aggregate Strength	Percentage Authorized Strength	Relative Standing
1 Jan 1955	6,675	65.6	8
30 Sep 1956	7,353	74.1	11

The above figures show a constant increase in actual strength and an increase in the percentage of authorized strength. The high esteem with which the people of Florida regard their National Guard is one of the principal factors in this steady growth. In addition, the construction of new armories to replace the temporary and often inadequate facilities has helped on the local basis.

Armory Training

To indicate the effectiveness of this type of training the following figures on the percentages of the command that have (1) qualified as Marksman, Sharpshooter or Expert with the weapon with which armed and (2) have passed military tests to measure proficiency in Military Occupational Specialties, are shown below:

No. of EM	No. Qualified in Individual Weapons	Qualified
7228	6132	84.9%
No. of EM	No. Qualified in MOS	Qualified
7228	4374	60.5%

The above figures show units of the Florida National Guard have reached a state of training which will enable them to fulfill their requirements for all missions, either state or federal.

Staff Training

During this period renewed emphasis has been placed on staff training at all levels. The staffs plan all movements to the Summer Field Training site and return. This involves coordinated movements by Commercial Bus, Rail and Army Truck over distances up to 800 miles. In addition the staffs plan or approve and coordinate all training schedules for Summer Field Training. The use of individual staff officers to assist the lower units has been placed on a regular schedule by all major commanders. These visits by staff officers are of great benefit to the unit and provide a means of maintaining standardization within the larger unit.

School Program

The complexity and cost of new equipment being furnished units of the Florida National Guard has increased the requirements for personnel to attend Army Service Schools. For qualified guardsmen this program provides a vehicle whereby the man can increase his value to the unit and often as a result of the schooling can increase his economic standing in his community. During this period, particularly due to the conversion of the 48th Division from Infantry to Armor the overall attendance at Service Schools reached a post-war peak.

Field Training

Each year the scope of training in the field has increased. By prior planning and the effective use of week-end drills for range practice and small unit tactics, the maximum utilization has been made of time at the summer encampments for field training. Requirements are rigid and all personnel work and train hard. Attendance at summer field training was 95.2% in 1955 and 96.6% in 1956.

Reserve Forces Act, 1955

In 1955, the 84th Congress passed the Reserve Forces Act which provided that certain members of the National Guard and Organized Reserves could apply for six months active duty for training. The first member of the Florida National Guard was, with his consent, ordered to active duty on 3 October 1955. As of 30 September 1956 a total of 73 Enlisted Men had been or were in training under this program.

Conclusion

During this biennium the Florida National Guard has made steady progress. Complex and costly equipment has been received, armories have been constructed, and many personnel have attended courses at Service Schools. Particularly as a result of these factors, but primarily because of voluntary efforts made by commanders and key personnel, the caliber and scope of all training has shown marked improvement.

FLORIDA AIR NATIONAL GUARD

GENERAL

The objective of the training program is to attain and maintain in each Air National Guard unit a state of readiness sufficiently high to successfully accomplish any Federal or State mission likely to be assigned.

Federal missions which may be assigned require that the training objective for each Air National Guard unit include thorough preparation for immediate call to Federal Service and assignment to the Air Defense Command of the United States. The objective of individual training is the development of each officer and airman in his primary AFSC (Air Force Specialty Code) to obtain maximum proficiency.

The concept of training has changed from a basic three year training program to individual AFSC qualifications of personnel in the shortest time possible, and maintaining that proficiency when qualified. To accomplish such training, service schools are utilized to a great extent, and a continuous on-the-job training program is carried on within each unit.

Air Base Training

Training periods have been changed from one Sunday and two Monday nights each month to one full weekend of sixteen hours. One of the advantages of this weekend drill is the additional four hours of training time gained each month.

Field Training

One hundred airmen with less than one year's service were ordered to Lackland Air Force Base to receive basic training under the USAF Basic Training Program. The remainder of the airmen attended Summer Field Training and received two weeks of intensive on-the-job training designed to help qualify them in their Air Force Specialties. The tactical pilots performed authorized tactical air gunnery missions and ground control intercept in the assigned aircraft, the F-80 Shooting Star. The performance of that type mission permitted additional capability to perform an Air Defense Command role in the event of mobilization. The advance planning for the Summer Field Training period, the field training operation and the closing of the Summer Field Training Program was effectively coordinated.

The re-organization of the Florida Air National Guard, having been effected on 1 July 1956, required that such re-organization into several units be disregarded for the 1956 Summer Field Training Program; therefore, the Florida elements were consolidated for the Summer Field Training period only, into a fighter squadron and functioned as in prior years as a tactical squadron of the 116th Fighter Interceptor Wing, and thus did not disrupt training plans. Transition from F-80 aircraft to F-86D aircraft had commenced, and therefore, both type aircraft were used at Summer Field Training. Gunnery missions in the F-80 aircraft and transition mission in the F-86D aircraft were accomplished each morning that weather permitted. The National Guard Bureau requested that Headquarters USAF make available a Mobile Training Detachment to assist the tactical squadron during Summer Field Training. The Mobile Training Detachment was housed and their equipment set up in close proximity to the Florida housing facilities. Each afternoon the tactical pilots attended classes conducted by the Mobile Training Detachment and thus gained otherwise unavailable familiarity with the F-86D. Two-thirds of all maintenance personnel were assigned to the Mobile Training Detachment classes during the entire field training period, with only maintenance personnel consisting of air technicians remaining on the line in order that the tactical aircraft be maintained and in flying condition.

Week-end Training

Small arms familiarization and qualification were completed by airmen. Continuous on-the-job training of airmen in their various Air Force Specialty Code fields was performed.

Tactical pilots performed flying training as required by Continental Air Command and Air Defense Command directives.

Officers other than tactical pilots performed continuous on-the-job training in their respective career fields.

Staff Training

Necessary liaison between the 116th Fighter Interceptor Wing, the Fourteenth Air Force, the Continental Air Command, the Air Defense Command, the National Guard Bureau and the subordinate Florida Air National Guard units was accomplished by the Staff Officers of the Florida Air National Guard and thus realistic and actual training were attained.

School Program

A most satisfactory attendance of Florida Air National Guard personnel at various service schools conducted by USAF Technical Training Schools was enjoyed. Ample federal funds were available for any qualified individual to attend a school which would further his career in the Air National Guard. Six individuals entered the pilot training program and seven individuals entered the aviation cadet program, thus assuring that potentially thirteen young pilots would be available for assignment to the Florida Air National Guard upon his completion of the course some eighteen months after entry. Special training courses and short tour transition courses for officers were advantageously utilized. Forty airmen attended service schools or special training courses in furtherance of their qualification requirements in their respective career fields.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

During 1955, the Florida Air National Guard enjoyed one of its best years insofar as attaining authorized strengths. Intensive recruiting was not particularly required as volunteers in sufficient numbers sought admittance to the Florida Air National Guard to permit an attendance figure well above the minimums required by the National Guard Bureau. Facilities were adequate to provide class room and training space for an authorized strength of 581.

During 1956, the strength of the Florida Air National Guard continued well above the phased strength required until a reorganization was effected. On 1 July 1956, the 159th Fighter Interceptor Squadron was reorganized into the 125th Fighter Group (Air Defense). The 8159th Replacement Training Squadron was disbanded. The activation of the 125th Fighter Group (AD) resulted in a self-sustaining unit capable of performing Air Defense Command missions. The authorized strength of the Florida Air National Guard was approximately doubled to an aggregate of 1035. With such an increase in strength, the facilities of the air base in Jacksonville were insufficient to permit unrestricted recruiting. As a result, each unit of the Group is meeting only the authorized minimum phased strength until the adequate facilities which are programed for construction will be completed, at which time, it is contemplated that 90% of authorized strength will again be reached with little difficulty.

The reorganization into a Fighter Group also changed the tactical squadron's mission from day fighter capabilities to all-weather type aircraft capable of day and night operations. Immediately after the reorganization, the F-80 aircraft were replaced by the new F-86D all-weather aircraft. By the end of the year twenty-four tactical pilots had been checked out in the new F-86D aircraft.

Air Base Araining

As the training periods for unit training assemblies had been changed during the biennium to permit sixteen hours of training over a weekend, the level of efficiency of airmen and officers increased because of all these additional hours.

The tactical pilots were authorized eight additional days training in both 1955 and 1956 to perform gunnery missions which contributed materially to their proficiency. During the period the tactical pilots participated in operation "Minuteman," "Late Summer," "Crackerjack," "Stop Watch," "Big Wheel," and "Winter's End," which were training exercises conducted by the Air Force, Air Defense Command and the National Guard Bureau.

On 1 April 1956, air crew members were authorized an additional thirty-six paid flying training periods annually.

The Air Force Testing Program is a program designed to determine the degree of proficiency of an airman in his Air Force Specialty and is controlled and supervised by the Air Force Senior Adviser assigned to the Florida Air National Guard. During the biennium 285 airmen were tested and 192 passed the tests, thus assuring them of receiving a skilled classification higher than they previously held, and determined promotional status.

MARKSMANSHIP PROGRAM

QUALIFICATIONS

The number of individuals qualified with individual and crew served weapons increased during the year 1955 and suffered a slight decrease during 1956. This decrease was a result of emphasis being placed on MOS training in newly converted units, using time previously allotted to marksmanship. There is no doubt that qualifications will reach a high mark again in the coming year as interest in marksmanship within all units has increased considerably. Following are listed the number of individuals in the Florida National Guard who have qualified with either individual or crew served weapon during the years 1955 and 1956.

ARMORIES REQUIRED

The Armories hereinafter listed represent facilities urgently needed to house organized units, to furnish necessary storage for State and Federal property, and to implement the training and administration of the Florida National Guard. The list indicates contemplated priorities for construction:

Jacksonville	3-Unit plus	$ 320,388.00
Orlando	2-Unit	203,560.00
Live Oak	1-Unit	179,159.00
Gainesville	1-Unit	179,159.00
Greater Miami Area A	1-Unit	179,159.00
Tampa	Extension of Present Armory	72,112.00
Miami	Extension Dade County Armory	103,266.00
Greater Miami Area B	1-Unit	179,159.00
Palmetto	1-Unit	179,159.00
Lake City	1-Unit	179,159.00
Panama City	1-Unit	179,159.00
TOTAL		$1,953,439.00

The Armories for Jacksonville and Orlando were included in the appropriation for construction during the current biennium. It appears, however, due to circumstances beyond the control of the Military Department, that contracts for construction cannot be let prior to the close of this fiscal year, at which time funds appropriated therefor will revert to General Revenue.

Units located in Gainesville and Greater Miami Area A are presently housed in USAR Armories. Due to expansion of the Reserves, these National Guard units have been requested to vacate the premises and no other suitable quarters are available.

The unit located in Lake City is presently housed in a building under short term lease from the City and is jointly occupied with the City. The City desires return of the entire building and other adequate quarters are not available.

The units located in Live Oak, Palmetto and Panama City are housed in Armories located on small lots in the center of town. Adequate space for storage and maintenance of equipment and adequate outdoor training area is not available. These units have no space to train in operation and maintenance of tanks and other track laying vehicles.

The extension of the Armories in Tampa and Miami, and the construction of an additional Armory in the Miami area are necessary to relieve an overcrowded situation which accelerates daily as the strengths of the units increase. These projects will furnish adequate storage and class room facilities at locations cited above.

ARMORY CONSTRUCTION

Armory Board Policy on Armory Use

Basically, armories must be for the housing, training and administration of the military. The Armory Board, however, recognizes the fact that the National Guard stems from the grass roots, a company or battery is a community affair, the personnel is composed of the sons and husbands of the citizenry, and the support of the community is vital to the success of this component of the State and National Defense. Military facilities must necessarily be constructed from money received from the taxpayers and additional justification for the expenditure of funds can be placed on the construction of armories where in addition to their basic use, they can be of some value to the community for community affairs. National Guard armories, because of the nature of use requiring the storage of classified documents and materiel, must be under the control of the military, and the local Post Commander is delegated this control and management by the Armory Board. It is not only the policy but the desire of the Armory Board that armories be utilized by the citizenry of the community to the fullest extent possible where the use is not to the detriment of the public interest and does not interfere materially with its primary use, which is the training of the military unit, or units, stationed thereat. Inasmuch as the use of any building requires expense as pertains to supervision, utilities, sanitary supplies, cleaning and other maintenance, it is necessary that funds in the form of rental accrue to defray this additional expense. The amount of such rental is determined by the Post Commander, assisted by other officers comprising the Post Council, and is normally based on the use to be made of the building and whether the enterprise is charitable or commercial in nature.

State Funds

The Adjutant General submitted a budget for the construction of additional Armories to the 1955 session of the Legislature in the sum of $636,880.00. The Legislature appropriated the amount requested.

Federal Funds

The Department of Defense developed a space and materials criteria based on functional use by the military. This plan while considered adequate for the training and housing of a National Guard unit, did not lend itself to utilization by the civil community nor was it in keeping with the current architectural trend in Florida. Federal funds are allocated only on the criteria as established, which includes no furnishings, shelving or outside utilities, and limits the square footage of the structure and materials to which they would contribute. The amount of Federal funds allocated for the standard type armory is available for use in building the type armories designed for use in Florida, where such building is approved as meeting the minimum requirements of the standard type. This has enabled the Armory Board to design armories in keeping with the architectural trend in Florida.

Community Funds

A number of communities desiring an Armory exceeding the criteria established by the Federal Government in order that it be more adaptable to the various uses of the community, contributed sums for Armory construction. Under this community contribution program, agreements between the Armory Board and the agency or agencies of the community contributing the funds were made and separate trust funds established with the Treasurer of the State of Florida for each specific Armory. The following contributions were made:

Belle Glade	City of Belle Glade	$15,000.00
	County of Palm Beach	$15,000.00
Cocoa	City of Cocoa	25,000.00
Marianna	County of Jackson	25,000.00
North Miami	City of North Miami	12,500.00
	County of Dade	12,500.00
Palatka	County of Putnam	25,000.00

Total contributions made by communities during the current biennium were in the amount of $130,000.00.

Accomplishments

In implementing the current armory construction program for which funds have been appropriated, contracts have been let and construction is under way for armories at Chipley, Sarasota, North Miami, St. Augustine, Belle Glade, Lake Wales, Palatka, Fort Pierce and Pensacola. Final plans and specifications are being completed for armories at Cocoa and Marianna, and it is contemplated that contracts for these armories will be let during the month of February 1957.

No action has been taken by this Department relative to planning for armories at Jacksonville and Orlando, inasmuch as it has not been possible to acquire sites for these buildings. Negotiations are presently in progress leading up to acquisition of a site at Orlando and if successful, plans will be completed and a contract let prior to 30 June 1957.

Future Program

In order to provide for the requirements of the National Guard of Florida in accordance with the present troop basis, it will be necessary to construct nine (9) additional new armories and to provide additions to two (2) existing armories. The detailed justification for these buildings is included in another part of this report.

NATIONAL GUARD AIR BASE

The Florida Air National Guard, located at Jacksonville, Florida, has assumed a prominent and vital part in the defense of this Nation. The organization has changed from that of a squadron to a group basis necessitating additional facilities. These facilities are under design and are being constructed entirely from Federal funds. They will include a new headquarters building, flight simulator building, rocket storage building, and additional aircraft parking area. It is contemplated that these facilities will be completed during the summer of 1957.

Construction of rifle ranges west of the City of Miami and in the Ocala National Forest was contemplated and plans for the Ocala National Forest range were prepared by the U. S. Corps of Engineers. Construction of all rifle ranges has been suspended, pending a study by the Department of the Army based upon which the training incident to rifle firing may be radically changed, necessitating a change in criteria for rifle ranges.

CAMP BLANDING MILITARY RESERVATION

Pursuant to the provisions of Public Law 493 of the 83rd Congress, approved 14 July 1954, an Agreement was consummated between the Armory Board, State of Florida and the United States of America on the 24th day of January 1955, and on that same date a Deed was executed, conveying approximately 40,000 acres of Federally owned lands contiguous to the approximately 30,000 acres of land owned by the Armory Board at Camp Blanding, to the Armory Board, State of Florida. Under the provisions of the aforementioned law, Agreement and Deed, the Armory Board is required to maintain all lands at Camp Blanding as a military reservation, prepare and implement a forest management plan on former Federal lands and continue to make improvements to the property. Several sales of timber designed to provide an improvement cut to the forest have been made. Many miles of fence and roadways have been constructed and numerous drainage structures have been placed to afford passage across streams. Under the provisions of the instruments by which the Armory Board acquired the property, all expenditures are subject to the approval of the District Engineer acting for the Secretary of the Army and any residue in revenue after expenditure on improvements must be divided equally between the United States of America and the Armory Board of the State of Florida at the end of each fiscal year.

Utilization

The Camp Blanding Military Reservation is being utilized by the Florida National Guard for the training of troops. Training has consisted of field maneuvers, small arms firing, antiaircraft subcaliber firing and tank subcaliber firing. It is used for the receipt, storage and issue of Federal property allocated to the Florida National Guard. Maintenance shops at Camp Blanding perform all repairs and maintenance to National Guard property which cannot be taken care of by the units at home station, and a Concentration Site for the storage of unit property over and above that actually needed by the troops at home station, is operated. The Florida State Development Commission continues to utilize a portion of Camp Blanding as a distribution center for surplus property obtained by them for educational institutions in the State of Florida. During the current biennium, the agreement between the Armory Board and the Florida State Prison by which the State Prison Farm raised cattle at Camp Blanding, was terminated.

Under an agreement between the Armory Board and the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, State of Florida, Camp Blanding has been designated as a special area for public hunting. Portions of the reservation were opened to hunting during November 1956 for the first time in many years.

Training Activities

During the biennium, the rifle range at Camp Blanding was utilized by the Florida National Guard for weekend training. Approximately 106 days of firing were conducted by the Florida National Guard during this period, with an estimated 17,198 man days of firing. In addition, the range was utilized by personnel of the Marine Aviation Detachment and Marine Air Reserve Training Detachment, Jacksonville Naval Air Station; 3rd Marine Aircraft Wing, Miami; Headquarters, Reserve Officers Training Corps and Advisor Group, Gainesville; U. S. Army Reserve units, Jacksonville; U. S. Naval Station, Green Cove Springs; Coast Guard, Port of Jacksonville; and U. S. Naval Air Station (Auxiliary), Sanford, with an estimated 39,103 man days of firing. Approximately 356 days of firing were conducted by these other components.

A bombing range is located at Stevens Lake and is utilized by the U. S. Atlantic Fleet, Fleet Air Jacksonville Naval Air Station, under a special permit from the Armory Board, State of Florida. The Navy also jointly utilized approximately 13,000 acres in the north part of Camp Blanding for a bombing range.

A tank range was constructed at Camp Blanding during the biennium and was in use after 1 May 1956. Elements of the 48th Armored Division (FP) utilized this range for weekend firing. Approximately 8 days of firing were conducted by these units during this period, with an estimated 591 man days of firing.

During the biennium, the facilities at Camp Blanding were utilized by the Florida National Guard for the purpose of conducting staff conferences and unit training. A number of map problems and unit exercises were conducted throughout the training terrain at the Reservation. There were 71 unit weekends of utilization of facilities incident to range activity. These included overnight accommodations and meals.

Income

The Camp Blanding Management Fund was established under the provisions of Chapter 250.41, Florida Statutes, 1949, as a result of the Agreement between the Armory Board, State of Florida and the United States of America, dated 24 January 1955, which agreement was required by Public Law 493, 83rd Congress, approved 14 July 1954

(68 Stat. 474). This fund derives its income from management and operation of the former Federal lands at Camp Blanding which includes royalties for mining minerals, sale of timber and pulp wood. Total receipts of funds by the Camp Blanding Management Fund are as follows:

Fiscal year ending 30 June 1955	$22,520.00
Fiscal year ending 30 June 1956	112,965.72

STATE PROPERTY

There are ninety-two (92) Memorandum Receipt Accounts maintained by the State Quartermaster for State property issued to units of the Florida National Guard. These properties consist of office furniture and equipment, and miscellaneous items required for the efficient operation of the various units or organizations and which are not included in the applicable Table of Organization and Equipment for supply from Federal sources.

There is also a quantity of organizational field equipment maintained by the State Quartermaster for immediate delivery to any unit in the State requiring the items for use during periods of hurricane relief, disaster, or civil disturbances when called to Active State Duty to aid civil authorities.

Chapter 220.49, Laws of Florida 1943, revising Section 790.08, Florida Statutes 1941, subsection (2) directs that all confiscated weapons "shall be forthwith delivered by the Sheriff, or Chief of Police, having custody thereof, to the Adjutant General of the Military Department of the State, who is hereby made the custodian of such weapons and arms for the State."
